HEAVENS WEPT FOR THE ANGELS

Called the Game Off.

Walters, the first Angel up, struck out, Sears got a walk. Gannon fouled out to Davis, Hardy was hit in the ribs and Hildebrand flew out to Kelly with nothing doing in the way of runs.

After Donahue went out the rain, which had been growing in volume, became quite numerous. Colgan suspended the doings for half an hour and then called the thing off, as the rain showed no signast of letting up. Before the crowd reached uptown, however, the sky was clear, but it was then too late. The transaction does not count as a game in the percentage table.

POLICE STOOD READY TO ARREST FIRST OFFENDER.

A combination of circumstances worked harmoniously together to prevent the opening day at Agricultural park from being a big success. The public got just chough of the game to whet its appetite for more, but miserable weather and the shutting off of pool selling served as a severe uamper on the meeting. As a result Manager Montgomery aumounced last evening that today's races and Saturday's races had been called off pending the outcome of a suit now before the courts to allow pool selling on horse races in this city. This suit comes up today and if the court decides against the horsemen the meeting will be called off all together, but if the track managers win, Manager Montgomery says he will give at least two weeks good racing.

The crowd was small but enthusiastic, and was with the management to a man on the pool selling proposition. They walked around looking for a chance to bet their money and the bookins were more than anxious to take charge of the coin.

Manager Montgomery appeared on the scene and told the bookmakers to go ahead, as he would stand by them. It looked bad for a minute. The policemen lined up alongside the stand, stating they would start arresting on the first bet placed. Just as the crowd expected to see some fun the bookies weakened and there was nothing doing.

Four of the five races scheduled were nulled off, the hurdie race being declared off on account of the muddy track. The taces seen, however, were of the kind that thrill a lover of fast horses.

The ponies set out at a terrific elip and at the half Calegula began to weaken, and Remark forged up to second place, with Madam Bishop leading by half a length. Coming into the stretch Remark challenged the leading Madam and they came down the stretch neck and neck. At the wire Remark made a beautiful effort but lost by a nose, Calegula being but a half a length behind the two leaders. When the second event was called it had started to blow and clouds of dust covered the track. The horses were hard to line un, but after several attempts they were off. As they turned into the hack stretch they were lost to sight in a cloud of dust, and nothing more was seen of the race until the fiving form of Barney Owen emerged from a cloud of dust coming down the home stretch.
